N Manjunath Prasad, IAS
Commissioner, BBMP

"We are very happy with the high levels of citizen participation in the MyCityMyBudget campaign for 2021. Citizens have contributed budget inputs from all 198 wards. This is extremely important as we prepare the budget for the coming year. It is our commitment to ensure that citizen inputs will be analysed, costed and funds allocated to end public urination and ensure footpaths are made safe and walkable for all our citizens. All these inputs will be placed before the Honourable Administrator of BBMP for inclusion in the forthcoming Budget of BBMP"

"I am happy to note the zeal of citizens of this city to participate in BBMP budget making. It is heartwarming to witness citizens and BBMP come together to address need based issues of footpaths & public toilets. Together we can bring Bengaluru city on par with the best cities across India. I take this opportunity to also invite citizens to participate in the Swachh Survekshan 2021 city SWM rankings by ensuring a clean and green city through these initiatives. We are also exploring partnerships with the BMTC and Petrol Stations to increase access of public to their Public Toilet facilities."

Special Commissioner

Thulasi Maddineni, IAS
Special Commissioner

"We are working towards making the BBMP budget more participatory and inclusive of citizens' felt needs. This campaign has enabled us to have communication with citizens in a structured manner and we are committed to enabling this work."

"It is easy to criticize and difficult to collaborate with government. But the BBMP has always been open for both criticism and collaboration. The MyCityMyBudget program BBMP runs every year is an amazing initiative that deserves national attention. This year was even more special, since the program focused on two very important things - public toilets and walkable footpaths that public truly cares about. It is heartwarming to see the enthusiastic participation of civic groups in Bengaluru that touched every single ward and every single social group in the city. This is a truly inclusive campaign that will change the ground situation thanks to BBMP's commitment"

"MyCityMyBudget in its fifth year now continues to prove that Citizens are keen to collaborate and partner with the city and are invested in the city's development. The BBMP this year has committed to allocating funds to fix the issues of public urination and walkability and the response from citizens has been nothing short of overwhelming! The ownership of this campaign amongst citizens has been outstanding, and under the leadership of the BBMP we are off to a good start on the city budget for 2021-22"

Note To Readers

We have compiled 9706 inputs from all 198 wards across Bengaluru city, for the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike(BBMP) Budget 2020-21 through the annual 'MyCityMyBudget' campaign. A full ward wise list of these inputs are available at www.yellowspots.in. All citizen budget inputs have been submitted to the BBMP in January 2021 and shared with all partner Resident Welfare Associations(RWA), Apartment Associations, Volunteer groups and Civil Society Organisations. You will find the complete partner listing on the next page. We will track these inputs against the BBMP Budget 2021-22 when it comes out in March 2021 and publish the impact. The BBMP is currently assessing the costs to implement the budget inputs. Even as this is being done, you may download the list for your ward and discuss it at the monthly Ward Committee meeting with your Nodal Officer. But the good news is that even if your budget input is not directly included in BBMP Budget 2021-22, a citizen could still work with the ward councillors, Nodal Officers and BBMP officers through Ward Committees to get budgets allocated for specific works in his/her neighbourhood. Take a look at the MyCityMyBudget Lifecycle to know-how. Please write to us at mycitymybudget@janaagraha.org or call +91 80 41200844/41500844 for further information or assistance needed or to know more about what we do in 'MyCityMyBudget'.

MyCityMyBudget 2021-22

Janaagraha and BBMPs collaborative annual participatory budgeting initiative 'MyCityMyBudget' concluded recently. In the last five years of MyCityMyBudget, citizens have repeatedly sought attention towards three essential issues - drivability, footpaths and walkability and health and sanitation. In an attempt to address the top issues raised by citizens, Pedestrian Infrastructure and Public Urination were chosen as the prime focus of this year's campaign.

Bengaluru continues to grapple with inadequate public toilets and sanitation facilities. There are only four public toilets per one lakh citizens, indicating a crippling paucity, the effect of which is starkly different on men and women. While men enjoy the liberty to relieve themselves in public, women face compromised presence in the public space due to the lack of either hygienic public toilets or the complete lack thereof. The unsanitary condition of existing public toilets compounds the issue and emergence of yellow spots, often blindly attributed only to lack of 'civic' sense. Statistics on access to public toilets reveal that public urination is a behavioural problem and a systemic one.

Broken or absent pedestrian infrastructure has compromised pedestrian mobility and safety across the city. Out of 3318 km of streets surveyed during the 'Janaagraha Street Quality Survey' in 2015, only 1928 km (i.e. 58 %) have walkable footpaths. With an increasing number of pedestrian deaths, of which the most vulnerable are senior citizens, it was important we address the lack of walkable footpaths.

Janaagraha's vision for robust collaboration with citizens came alive with over 42 civil society organisations, resident welfare associations and other community groups joining hands to lead the campaign. During the input collection drive, there was outstanding on-ground support, making the first leg of the campaign a resounding success. With another successful run with MyCityMyBudget input collection drive, we are slowly inching towards weaving citizen participation into the fabric of local municipal budget-making.

The Lifecycle of MyCityMyBudget

The MyCityMyBudget campaign was centered around two issues of prime focus—ending public urination and fixing broken footpaths. The bigger spotlight however was on collecting citizens inputs to identity yellow spots, unusable and poorly maintained public toilets through #YellowSpotsBeda. The call aimed at identification of areas that need new public toilets, and repair and maintenance of existing ones.

Despite COVID and the prevailing restrictions of on-ground interaction with citizens, citizen response was phenomenal and so were the total number of inputs collected. MyCityMyBudget campaign ran for a period of 32 days, and received over 9706 citizen inputs from all 198 wards of Bengaluru for footpath improvement, public urination spots and public toilet related budget inputs.

Ensuring Inclusive Participation

Inclusivity remained fundamental to the implementation of the campaign. Especially for those whose livelihoods and professions entails long hours on the city streets. Citizen groups and the team at Janaagraha spared no efforts in reaching out to these groups comprising of- traffic policemen and women, pourakarmikas, street vendors, bus conductors etc, as well as other urban poor citizens.

Citizens submitted inputs for 7 categories of complaints such as

Broken Footpath

Garbage or Debris on Footpath

New Footpath

Dirty or Unusable Public Toilet

Dirty or Unusable Mobile Public Toilet

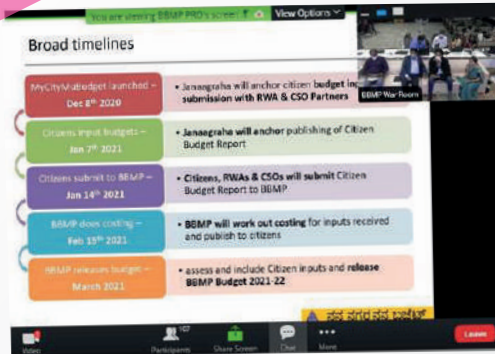

New Public Toilet

Public Urination or Yellow Spot

BBMP budget to focus on civic infrastructure

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

RENEWABLE, DECEMBER 22, 2020 00:08 PM

The focus of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike's (BBMP) 2021-22 budget will be on the improvement of civic infrastructure, said civic chief N. Manjunath Prasad.

Speeding after launching Janaagraha's MyCityMyBudget bus on Monday, he acknowledged the lack of proper footpaths and severe shortage in public toilets in the city. The existing footpaths were narrow, full of obstructions, having missing slabs, dumped with garbage and debris and not pedestrian friendly, he pointed out.

Severe shortfall

With just 585 public toilets, there is a severe shortfall given the population. The city needed at least 1,400 toilets. "We have the budget for the construction of

The wall behind Krishna Temple in Malleshwaram was a #YellowSpot (Public Urination area) But not anymore!

In an initiative taken by Malleshwaram Social the residents of Malleshwaram have cleaned this spot and given this wall an artistic touch by painting the colourful Lord Jagannath. Just a few hours to go to submit #MyCityMyBudget inputs. Make every minute count. Visit www.yellowspots.in

Voices of Bengaluru

These are good initiatives. What the Municipal Corporation and government are lacking is sustenance and maintenance. All the money spent goes down the drain after a few months of starting operations. We need a plan of how it will be maintained. Else just another waste of tax money.

Many people don't want to urinate in public but unfortunately they won't be able to find when they need so they find some bush or wall or some garbage area to urinate. I find public toilets wherever I'm in city through Google maps. You simply type public toilet, it shows Public Toilets and you.

Not sure about charges but worth it. Even at high density areas, men are charged between Rs 2 to Rs 5 and women flat Rs 5. Only that more cleanliness is required.

These rates are fine.

It is high time that BBMP officials will action against shop keepers who encroach footpaths to display their shop items.

#MyCityMyBudget a wonderful initiative by Janaagraha, encouraging citizens to share their views on how do they want their city's budget to be spent. Much needed to promote citizens' participation in urban governance.

Unusable or Missing Footpaths Identified through MCMB 2021-22 in Bengaluru

Peripheral/Outer wards of Bengaluru received almost 50% more inputs for new footpaths than the inner wards.

Spatial analysis of 4781 footpath related citizen inputs submitted through MCMB 2021-22 depicts the spread of unusable or missing footpaths in Bengaluru.

These locations require immediate intervention from BBMP through repair/maintenance of the existing footpath network or construction of new footpaths.

NEXT STEP TOWARDS CHANGE

Collection and submission of inputs is only the first step towards building a responsive civic ecosystem. More work lies ahead for us citizens to ensure sustained engagement with the BBMP to address the issues raised by you in MyCityMyBudget. Here is what you can do:

Download your Ward Wise MyCityMyBudget inputs from www.yellowspots.in

Discuss the inputs in your local community meeting with your RWA, Apartment Association or interested citizen group.

Check the date and time of your Ward Committee meeting and your nodal officers' details at bbmp.gov.in. As of now, the meetings take place the 1st and the 3rd Saturday of every month.

Discuss the status of budget and implementation of the citizen budget inputs for your ward at the Ward Committee meeting.

Download the IChangeMyCity app to stay updated on BBMP Budgets and your Ward Budget Brief as it is released.
